Spring is a season for clutter-clearing. Why not finally take all your loose snapshots and put them where they belong—in gorgeous, handmade albums? We're stuck on GLENDORA's (pictured here), available only at the gift shop of Washington, Connecticut's esteemed Mayflower Inn. A fashion model in the 1950s, Glendora, who now lives nearby, covers books in pretty silks and other fabrics, binds them in ribbons and, for her bridal albums, affixes hand-painted roses to their covers. You can also customize your album by supplying Glendora with your favorite fabric (from $35 to $100; to order, call 860-868-9466, ext. 471). ANTONIA CAMPI's chrome-plated steel scissors are $46 at Papivore (papivore.com), while PINEIDER's yellow-leather and wicker basket ($795, at Bergdorf Goodman; 800-967-3788) will keep your archiving accoutrements elegantly organized. As a time-saving alternative, seek out professional help from such chaos-conquerers as New York-based PHOTOJEANIE (a.k.a. Jeanie Engelbach). Just give her your pics and she'll organize them, box them or put them in an album—provide your own or let her select one. She'll even help you sensibly stash the negatives. (Starts at $40 per hour; 917-553-8600). CHARLOTTE DRUCKMAN
